

IYP LIGHTHOUSE

Aiding India's Boating Industry

IndiaYachtPage.com
India's Boating Industry on One Page.

HEADLINES

Will The Lack Of Law Capsize India's Boating Industry

If something is not legalized does it mean it is illegal? With the lack of adequate permissions, regulations and policies, leisure boating in India faces inconvenience and controversy constantly. The number of boats and business opportunity in this sunrise industry is growing - against all odds and the many setbacks the industry faces every year. IndiaYachtPage.com invites you to participate in the interactive SOS Movement (Speak Of Solutions) that will address the above. Mail us your comments and questions or any information you wish to share on info@indiayachtpage.com

BOAT SHOW

GIMBE 2011: First Boat Show In The New Season

The Goa International Marine & Boat Expo 2011 (GIMBE) scheduled to be held from the 16th - 18th December will be the first boat show in the new season. With less than a month to go the show is readying itself for its third successful year. For stall bookings and more information contact Ms. Tamara Faleiro on +91 9850077993 / +91 832 243-8999, Fax: +91 832 2437077, e-mail: marketing@goamarineboatexpo.com Visit www.goamarineboatexpo.com for current news updates, glimpses and coverage of the previous shows; GIMBE 2009 & 2010.

MARINA

Boating In Mumbai Awaits Its First Most Basic Sea-Change

The few "first changes" we wished to see when the season re-opened were a safer landing station / floating pontoon at Gateway of India, a fuel station, a docking station, freedom of movement along India's coastline, a better land venue for boat shows in Mumbai adjacent to the sea and lastly promoting yacht clubs and sailing in Mumbai. The Mumbai Port Trust (MbPT) has approved in principle a floating jetty at the Gateway of India. It is the first step and the least that must be done to bring about progressive leaps in infrastructure development. Lets hope to see it in place this season.

BOTTOMLINE

IndiaYachtPage.com FORUM Goes Live In JAN 2012

The All New IndiaYachtPage.com will have a wider scope of coverage with many more categories for boating companies to list themselves. One can upload their boating events on the calendar, check weather forecast and the tide table and even leave comments, questions and suggestions. Submit your articles and promote your brand & company on IYP.com that is built especially for you. If you have something to say, voice it on IndiaYachtPage.com The online FORUM will encourage constructive dialogue and provide answers & information on all things connected to leisure boating in India.

TAP THE ONLINE MARKET.
THE FASTEST WAY TO GET CONNECTED!

ADVERTISE WITH US
CONTACT US