Riva, The Ultimate Diva Of Boating Celebrates 170!

In 1842 Lake D'Isèo is hit by a storm which wrecks all the fishing boats and damages them beyond repair. A talented young carpenter accomplishes the near impossible by repairing the boats. This work of his helps him gain appreciation and admiration of the people and encourages him to open a shipyard. Thus begins Pierto Riva's journey into the boating industry and today, 170 years later the company still stands as one of the most decorated and celebrated brands in the history of boating. Riva is a part of the Ferretti Group and produces one of the best luxury fiberglass yachts in the world.

BOAT MAINTENANCE

Increase The Life Of Your Sails With These Sail Care Tips

Traditionally, boat sails were made from cotton, canvas or other natural material, but now most of them are made from polyester. It is the most durable sailcloth available for cruising yachts. Yachts have been used for serious racing, recreational activities, family outings, etc. and hence the sails of the yachts have to be maintained. Although sail cloths may be different they all have the same enemies and defending against them will increase the life of your sails and their performance. Adequate care and attention to sail care will not only protect but also prevent and prevention is cheaper than correction.

TECH TALK

Sailing Apps Replacing The Radar

Gone are those days when heavy equipments like radars and anemometers forecast the weather and predicted the changes in the sea. The entire world has shrunk to the size of one's palm, ipads and android powered phones and tablet rule the roost. Sailing has benefited a lot from these advancements in technology. Sailing Apps have virtually put the radars out of use. Whether you need weather advice and forecasting, knot guides, flag signal information, racing rules or even a whole social sailing community, they are all available at your fingertips. Here are some of the phenomenal apps...
